Sainsburys Aylesbury Section 278 Works
Buckinghamshire

The Brief

Danaher & Walsh Civil Engineering was appointed by RG Group to carry out major Section 278 highway works relating to the construction of brand new Sainsbury's store in Aylesbury, Buckinghamshire.

Our Solutions

The new store was constructed on a large vacant plot in a prominent location on the corner of Gatehouse Road and Bicester Road. As part of the development, extensive highway improvements were required. The A41 Gatehouse Road was widened, and a left-hand turn lane was constructed. A traffic signalised junction was installed to create a main entrance into the new store. Street lighting was upgraded, and new traffic signs were installed.

Extensive utility diversions were undertaken on Gatehouse Road, including a substantial Thames Water sewer diversion. On Bicester Road, extensive footway improvement works took place, and a pedestrian crossing was installed. This section comprised further utility diversion works, as well as provision for incoming services and construction of the main store's foul drainage connection.

Works also comprised alterations to the roundabout connecting the two roads.

Outcomes

All works were carried out while keeping the highways fully open thanks to carefully planned works phasing and traffic management works.
